PUBLIC-REDACTEDINTRODUCTION

2 Yet again Defendant Meta Platforms, Inc. (“Meta”) has disregarded the Court’s admonition
3 against Daubert motions and seeks to have Dr. Tilman Klumpp (“Klumpp”), an expert relied upon 4 by Advertiser Plaintiffs (“Advertisers”), excluded. In their motion, it is clear that Meta fails to 5 understand the purpose of Dr. Klumpp’s opinions as they relate to the applicable antitrust laws.

6 Advertisers allege Meta illegally maintained its monopoly in the social advertising market
7 through several courses of “predatory and exclusionary conduct.” See Klein v. Meta Platforms, Inc., 8 2022 WL 17477101, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 6, 2022) (Donato, J.). To prevail at trial on this theory, 9 Advertisers must show “(1) the possession of monopoly power in the relevant market and (2) the 10 willful acquisition or maintenance of that power as distinguished from growth or development as a 11 consequence of a superior product, business acumen, or historic accident.” Epic Games, Inc. v. Apple 12 Inc., 493 F. Supp. 3d 817, 834 (N.D. Cal. 2020) (Donato, J.) (quoting United States v. Grinnell Corp., 13 384 U.S. 563, 570-71 (1966)). The first part of this test involves evidence related to defining the 14 relevant antitrust market and determining whether Meta has “the power to control prices or exclude 15 competition” from the relevant market. Epic Games, 493 F. Supp. 3d at 834. The second part of this 16 test involves evidence that Meta’s conduct was “predatory or exclusionary” in that it resulted in “a 17 less competitive market.” Id. at 836.

18 Advertisers offer the testimony of two expert economists on these issues. Dr. Michael 19 Williams is prepared to testify as to, inter alia, the contours of the relevant antitrust market, the social 20 advertising market, and Meta’s market power in that market (i.e., part one of the Grinnell test). Dr.
21 Klumpp is prepared to testify as to whether the conduct alleged by Advertisers, if proven, would have 22 led to a less competitive social advertising market (i.e., part two of the Grinnell test). Klumpp’s is 23 root liability testimony by a qualified economist who reviewed a mountain of evidence in this case.
24 None of Meta’s grounds for exclusion contained in its motion to exclude (the “Motion” or “Mot.”)¹ 25 hold water. As such, the Motion should be denied.

LEGAL STANDARD

2 Dr. Klumpp's opinions are admissible if "they are relevant, supported by the evidence, based 3 on sound methodologies, and useful to the jury on topics that ordinary people would not necessarily 4 understand without help." In re Google Play Store Antitrust Litig., 2022 WL 17252587, at *3 (N.D.
5 Cal. Nov. 28, 2022) (Donato, J.).² Relevance and connection to the evidence are linked. See Primiano
6 v. Cook, 598 F.3d 558, 565 (9th Cir. 2010) ("Expert opinion testimony is relevant if the knowledge
7 underlying it has a valid connection to the pertinent inquiry."). An expert's methodologies are sound
8 if they have "a reliable basis in the knowledge and experience of the relevant discipline." Primiano, 9 598 F.3d at 565. For an expert's testimony to be useful, it "must 'fit' the case, and be tied to the 10 claims and facts in a way that helps the jury decide the dispute between the parties." CZ Servs., Inc.
11 v. Express Scripts Holding Co., 2020 WL 4518978, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 5, 2020) (Donato, J.).

12 Meta has moved to exclude Dr. Klumpp’s testimony under Fed. R. Evid. 702 and Daubert v.
13 Merrell Dow Pharmas., Inc., 509 U.S. 579 (1993).³ As applied to expert testimony challenged under 14 Daubert, “[t]he Rule 702 inquiry is ‘a flexible one,’ with no ‘definitive checklist or test.’” Google
15 Play Store, 2022 WL 17252587, at *3 (quoting Daubert). “Rule 702 should be applied with a liberal 16 thrust favoring admission.” Id. at *4. Dr. Klumpp’s testimony and report should be excluded only if 17 his “approach is ‘junk science’ akin to predicting criminality by feeling the bumps on a person’s 18 head.” Bumpus v. Realogy Brokerage Grp. LLC, 2022 WL 867256, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 23, 2022) 19 (Donato, J.). Because “the Court is a gatekeeper, not a fact finder . . . objections short of that are 20 fodder for cross-examination and not exclusion.” Google Play Store, 2022 WL 17252587, at *4.

ARGUMENT

I. DR. KLUMPP'S PROPOSED TESTIMONY AND REPORT ARE ADMISSIBLE

23 Dr. Klumpp holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in Economics and is a Professor of Economics at 24 the University of Alberta, Canada, with extensive research and publications on microeconomics, law 25 and economics, industrial organization, and public economies. He applied this expertise to his

1 analysis of the record evidence in this case, in particular [REDACTED] that Advertisers
2 allege impaired competition in the U.S. social advertising market. Dr. Klumpp submitted a detailed

4 foundations for his expert opinion, offered to assist the jury in determining [REDACTED]

20 In drafting his report and coming to these well-found conclusions, Dr. Klumpp consulted over 21 200 unique documents from the record in this case, 17 deposition transcripts, and over 70 secondary 22 sources, citing to nearly all of that material in his report.⁶ Given the centrality of these issues to the

PUBLIC-REDACTED

1 case, and the breadth of relevant material Dr. Klumpp reviewed and cited, Meta substantially
 2 concedes that Dr. Klumpp's opinions and report are relevant and based on the evidence. But Meta 3 argues his opinions should be excluded based largely upon the methodology he used (or in some 4 instances, opted not to use) to reach them.

5 Dr. Klumpp's conclusions are admissible, then, barring a fatal flaw in his methodology.
 6 Bumpus, 2022 WL 867256, at *3 (“If the method is valid and reliable, and fits the case, it will be 7 admitted; attacks on the quality of the data the expert used, the application of the methodology to the 8 data, and the overall persuasiveness of the expert’s opinions are matters for cross-examination.”). No 9 fatal flaw exists here. Meta’s attacks on Dr. Klumpp’s methodology, discussed in detail below, all 10 fall into the categories of attacks on the quality of data, application of his methodology, and the overall 11 persuasiveness of Dr. Klumpp’s opinions. None warrant excluding Dr. Klumpp’s opinions, as they 12 at most go to the weight and not the admissibility of his opinions.

13 A. Dr. Klumpp’s Acceptance of Meta’s Market Power and Plaintiffs’ Allegations Is 14 Appropriate

15 In several places in its Motion, Meta criticizes the underlying assumptions Dr. Klumpp makes 16 as a foundation for his opinions.⁷ These criticisms take two forms: first, that Dr. Klumpp improperly 17 assumed Meta’s position as a monopolist in the relevant market and/or misunderstood monopoly 18 maintenance,⁸ and second, that Dr. Klumpp improperly assumed that Advertisers will prove their 19 claims at trial (i.e., offered his opinions on an “if proven” basis).⁹ Both assumptions are entirely 20 proper.

21 To begin with, in accordance with the Court’s clear instruction that there be no overlap
 22 between Advertisers’ expert economists, Dr. Klumpp’s proposed testimony on anticompetitive effects 23 will not overlap with Dr. Williams’s proposed testimony on the contours of the relevant antitrust 24 market and Meta’s market power within it. It is therefore appropriate for Dr. Klumpp to adopt Dr.

25
 26 ⁷ See, e.g., ¶¶69, 133, 139.

27 ⁸ Mot. at 1. Dr. Klumpp’s understanding of monopoly maintenance is addressed separately, below.

28 ⁹ Id. at 2, 8-9.

PUBLIC-REDACTED

1 Williams's conclusions that the relevant market in this case is the social advertising market, and Meta
2 possesses market power within that market. See, e.g., Maney v. Oregon, 2024 WL 1695083, at *13
3 (D. Or. Apr. 19, 2024) (noting it is "well established that an expert may rely on the opinions of other 4 experts in formulating the expert's own opinions").

5 It is also proper for Dr. Klumpp to assume the truth of Advertisers' allegations—whether those 6 allegations are proven by the evidence is the province of the jury, not an expert. See Williams v.
7 Illinois, 567 U.S. 50, 57 (2012) ("Under settled evidence law, an expert may express an opinion that 8 is based on facts that the expert assumes, but does not know, to be true. It is then up to the party who 9 calls the expert to introduce other evidence establishing the facts assumed by the expert."), abrogated
10 on other grounds by Smith v. Arizona, 602 U.S. 779 (2024); accord In re Capacitors Antitrust Litig., 11 2020 WL 870927, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 21, 2020) (Donato, J.) ("Defendants' objection that McClave
12 accepted the conspiracy period from class counsel without 'independently verifying' it is also a topic 13 for possible cross-examination and argument at trial, but not exclusion from the record. It is rather 14 odd to say that McClave did not 'independently verify' the conspiracy period. If he had opined on 15 what the conspiracy period properly should have been based on his own investigation and analysis, 16 defendants undoubtedly would have moved to strike such an opinion as legal in nature and 17 improper."). Thus, Meta's foundational attacks on Dr. Klumpp are defeated by copious antitrust law.

[REDACTED] "Review" of an agreement, especially one in an antitrust case that is alleged to be hidden from public eye, is not a requirement for an expert's opinion on the anticompetitive effects of that agreement to be admissible. See, e.g., Zavislak, 2024 WL 2884649, at *15. Because demonstrating anticompetitive effects is a requirement under both Section 1 and 2 of the Sherman Act,¹⁸ applying the standard Meta proposes would effectively immunize unwritten agreements from Sherman Act treble damages actions.¹⁹

And, as explained above, it was entirely proper for Dr. Klumpp to assume Advertisers would prove the existence of [REDACTED] at trial and offer an opinion on the anticompetitive effects of [REDACTED] on an "if proven" basis. This is another "attack[] on . . . the application of the methodology to the data," Bumpus, 2022 WL 867256, at *3, that does not warrant excluding Dr. Klumpp's opinions.²⁰

In that case, Apple attempted to use one expert's testimony to "bolster" the reliability of another of Apple's expert's survey, despite admitting to having "not seen the results" of that survey. Id. at *20.

1 opining on whether one party breached the contracts in question and this is not a circumstance where 2 the parties' respective rights or performance under the [REDACTED] is outcome-determinative.²³
 3 Dr. Klumpp is prepared to testify about the anticompetitive effects of a series of contracts, a topic that 4 is the purview of countless expert reports in federal antitrust litigation.²⁴ To do that analysis, he must 5 be permitted to review the contracts and draw some conclusions about the rights and obligations those 6 contracts impose on the parties.²⁵ Imposing Meta's cumulative standard would effectively immunize 7 all agreements from economic scrutiny in Sherman Act litigation. When evaluating the 8

9 ²³ Meta's cited authority is distinguishable. In PixArt Imaging, Inc. v. Avago Tech. Gen. IP 10 (Singapore) Pte. Ltd., 2011 WL 5417090, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 27, 2011), the court admitted the 11 expert in question, finding that the expert's conclusions that one party had "overstate[d] the amount 12 that [the counterparty] should have reported for purposes of royalty calculations" under a contract 13 were "not evaluations of the rights of the parties under the [contract]." In Aguilar v. Int'l
 14 Longshoremen's Union Loc. No. 10, 966 F.2d 443, 447 (9th Cir. 1992), the Ninth Circuit affirmed 15 exclusion of an expert's opinion that it was reasonable to presume classwide reliance on a term in an 16 employment contract, a fundamental legal issue in the case. Dr. Klumpp's opinion and report make 17 no such naked legal conclusions, but rather are straightforward readings of contractual provisions.
 18 Similarly, in CZ Servs., 2020 WL 4518978 at *4, this Court was concerned with limiting testimony 19 about whether certain "practices were illegal or unlawful", id. at *3, or "whether any contractual 20 provisions were satisfied or breached," id. at *4, neither of which topics Dr. Klumpp will opine on.

21 ²⁴ See, e.g., Zavislak, 2024 WL 2884649, at *16 ("An expert may also refer to the law in expressing 22 an opinion without that reference rendering the testimony inadmissible."); Sec. & Exch. Comm'n v.
 23 Ripple Labs, Inc., 2023 WL 5670711, at *22 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 6, 2023) ("Ferrell's opinion about the 24 XRP contracts is limited to describing the commercial purposes of those contracts; he does not opine
 25 on any ultimate issues of law that govern this case. Ferrell does not offer any analysis of contract law 26 or interpret a disputed contract provision—indeed, the parties do not have any legal disputes about 27 the contracts. His opinion about the commercial purposes of the Ripple contracts is proper expert 28 witness testimony that may explain how a contract operates in the marketplace."); Takeda Pharms.
 29 USA, Inc. v. Spireas, 2019 WL 9596536, at *1 (E.D. Pa. Sept. 4, 2019) (rejecting argument that expert 30 report included "improper legal analysis of contracts involving the parties," concluding that even 31 though the report "references legal documents, it does not appear that [the expert] is trying to 'explain 32 the law' or render an opinion about 'what the law requires.' As such, the report and [the expert's] 33 opinions do not warrant exclusion under Daubert.").

34 ²⁵ Meta's argument that Dr. Klumpp's analysis of litigation risk has "no basis in economics" is 35 belied by decades of federal jurisprudence, including U.S. Supreme Court opinions, analyzing the 36 interplay between litigation risk and competition risk in the pharmaceutical pay-for-delay settlement 37 context. See, e.g., King Drug Co. of Florence v. Smithkline Beecham Corp., 791 F.3d 388, 404 (3d 38 Cir. 2015) ("[T]he [Supreme] Court reasoned [in Actavis] that 'even a small risk of invalidity' may 39 not justify a 'large payment' (presumably enabled by 'patent-generated monopoly profits') that 'likely 40 seeks to prevent the risk of competition.'") (quoting F.T.C. v. Actavis, Inc., 570 U.S. 136, 157 (2013)).

PUBLIC-REDACTED

1 anticompetitive effects of a contract or other agreement under the Sherman Act, for an expert's 2 opinion to be admissible under Meta's standards, the expert cannot assume the agreement will be 3 proven, must read and review the agreement, but then cannot opine as to what the agreement says or 4 means for the parties. Conveniently for Meta, under this standard, an economist cannot opine on the 5 anticompetitive effects of an anticompetitive contract or agreement at all. These too are "attacks on 6 . . . the application of the methodology to the data," Koger v. Costco Wholesale Corp., 2023 WL
7 8188842, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 27, 2023) (Donato, J.), and are "matters for cross-examination."

16 Finally, Meta argues that Dr. Klumpp improperly asserts that “the maintenance of monopoly 17 power on its own constitutes an anticompetitive effect.”²⁹ This is a gross mischaracterization of Dr.
 18 Klumpp’s report. As outlined above, Dr. Klumpp’s conclusions all discuss frustration of competitive
 19 entry, a canonical anticompetitive effect. See LePage’s Inc. v. 3M, 324 F.3d 141, 159 (3d Cir. 2003)

7 Meta’s cherry-picked excerpts of Dr. Klumpp’s deposition are a feeble attempt to manufacture
8 a foundational economic error from a difference in the terms Meta’s deposing counsel and Dr.
9 Klumpp were using to describe the same concept:

CONCLUSION

21 All of Dr. Klumpp’s conclusions will be useful to the jury in understanding how and why the 22 specific actions Meta took, when viewed in the context of Meta’s monopoly power, produced 23 anticompetitive effects in the social advertising market. All of Dr. Klumpp’s conclusions are 24 admissible. Meta’s Motion to Exclude the Report and Testimony of Dr. Tilman Klumpp should be 25 denied.
